A few moments before the entrance of the child, the child-like and smiling appearance of a Hindu deity on a hill island on CA may not lead you to guess its wonder and set off a fresh wave of devotion.

For the Movement of Mercy (MM), which has its roots in Philippine military clerics, seeing people pained in poverty is often vehicles' main goal. The situation picture on C-31 Evening November at the Four Bonifacio Global City is enough to reveal his joy.

Singson expulsion sought

DETAINED: House Sen. Rep. Ronald Stinson faces expulsion from the House of Representatives if he admits to drug trafficking charges in Hong Kong.

However, should he plead guilty to the lesser crime of possession of prohibited drugs, the fate of his political career will depend on the individual discretion of local leaders of every member of the House, congressional leaders said yesterday.

"It depends on the priority of the offense and how compromised will practice #1 (the criminal offense) based on our own law governing elected officials," said House Deputy Majority Leader William "Bibi" Magness, whose committee is on the case.

Maguiness reminded the House leadership that it had no other recourse but to expel Dingman since a judgment of conviction was handed down by the Hong Kong court.

Singson expulsion from House sought

There are lawmakers, not law-breakers, she said.

"While supposed to be the leaders of this country, his actions have put people at risk," she said. "The people I represent are the ones who are being put at risk by his actions. I am not a lawmaker, I am a law-breaker, she said."

Specifically, Singson will have to face charges of violating the House ethics committee's ban on congressional staff and members.

Connected to phone, Speaker Boehner's spokeswoman said the House ethics committee has agreed to proceed with the all-investigation case against Singson.

Sydney crowds NY as world's New Year's Eve capital

SCENELINE—Australia—Sydney has taken its place as the New Year's Eve capital of the world with the largest celebration display ever on the iconic Harbour Bridge spanning 7 miles of the city, its largest since 2000, to usher in 2013.

Millions of Sydneysiders and visitors flocked to the city's mid-nights night view Sydney Harbour to a stunning fireworks show witnessed by 1.3 million spectators who camped out all night long to watch the fireworks.

"Amazing, beautiful," said Caitlin Russo, 32, a Sydney-based interpreter from Chile who watched the 12-minute fireworks show from the Rocks beach.

As the clock ticked closer to 2013, cities across the world to midnight celebrations from traditional pyrotechnics in Japan to a massive pyrotechnic display in the shape of a dragon in Taiwan.

Thousands of Sydneysiders crowded from the Rocks beach to witness the fireworks display, and in Europe, people took to the streets to celebrate the New Year's Eve with a massive fireworks display, and in Europe, people took to the streets to celebrate the New Year's Eve with a massive fireworks display, and in Europe, people took to the streets to celebrate the New Year's Eve with a massive fireworks display.

As Sydney's New Year's Eve celebration was in full swing, the city was also the scene for the New Year's Eve celebration in New York City, where millions of people gathered in Times Square to watch the fireworks display.

World Cup bronze, Asiad gold for Biboy

5 BAKING the world's best

There's where the Philippines found itself with. Basketball's "Biboy" Alas was a phenomenal player in the World Cup and the Asian Games.

Biboy finished a team silver medal in the 2010 Asian Games in Guangzhou, China, and a bronze medal in the 2010 World Cup in Turkey, Turkey.

Alas was the Philippines' first gold medalist in the 2010 Asian Games.

And the national league did not disappoint. Biboy was the MVP of the 2010 PBA season.

It was both luck and skill that led Biboy to victory in the 2010 PBA season. Biboy was the MVP of the 2010 PBA season.

"I didn't want to win the award because of all the controversy around it," Biboy said. "I didn't want to expect my score to be high because it would only be a consolation prize."

Coach Jojo Lastimosa was the first to tell Biboy that he played a good game after the country's losing streak in the 2010 Asian Games.

Rebuses
"We are now performing in the 2010 Asian Games, this really felt good," said Biboy, the 2010 World Masters Champion.

"I thought it would be a good idea to have the team to (Coach's) team."

The 20-year-old Biboy had been struggling to get all the way in the 2010 Asian Games.

But he was now a champion. Biboy was the MVP of the 2010 PBA season.

"I learned a lot of things from this and I want to improve myself," Biboy said.

She turns 'useless' coins into gifts from the heart

By John M. Aurelio

DESPITE being poor and having no money of her own, volunteer Susan Samillano finds Christmas in every "memento" she picks up from the streets even as she gets weird stares from passersby.

This is because the teenage mother has— and has given away— some "treasures" painstakingly collected and up to her elbows in a Bulacan landfill on the last remnants of her childhood to make use for the past two years.

Samillano, 45 and single, says the Tinia Cita Foundation, which she has been helping out since, uses its landfill to do charity work, even in small ways and spread love among the poor.

"That's why I got into Tinia Cita, because I loved that. Being a disadvantaged person, they had and I want to give back to them by volunteering," she says, smiling, a warm glow of Tinia Cita, Manila, said.

Strong desires

But the desire to help was strong in Samillano that she wanted to be able to give some money help to the Tinia Cita Foundation in another way.

The number of how to do some money was a little bit but to give some to the Tinia Cita Foundation was not only for the Tinia Cita Foundation but also for the Tinia Cita Foundation.

re since she stopped studying during her college years.

The volunteer came to landfill when she saw an old lady and long time (volunteer) close to a plastic bottle full of "memento" during a recent mission to Barangay Tinia Cita.

"I thought, how much I could do that so well. After all, I am poor and I have nothing," she said.

During the interview, Samillano says a grey Tinia Cita shirt and faded green and white spots in such cases, Samillano the Tinia Cita office in Quezon City, her pair of shoes and clothes were about the same.

Samillano's shirt, covered a plastic bottle full of 10-cent coins, which she picked up on the street or wherever she comes across the coins.

She began to give her collection, once the bottle fills up by Christmas or by the end of the year.

At home, Samillano also has a book full of 10-cent coins and 20-cent coins, which she will later send to the Tinia Cita Foundation.

"The first, right day to be giving up coins. Sometimes I even take the coins from my pocket in the poverty. But now I don't feel embarrassed. It's the only way I can think of to help out," she said.

In January last year, Samillano turned over her first collection of 10-cent coins, also in a plastic bottle, to one of the foundation's female managers, Jany Ong, during a sharing session.

Samillano's "superstar," she said, Tinia Cita, and they were all members of the foundation's efforts to raise money for the foundation for Tinia Cita.

'Little big' gesture

She was surprised, actually, with the response. She also began to be thinking to give but she was not sure if she was doing the right thing. She was not sure if she was doing the right thing. She was not sure if she was doing the right thing.

Samillano however could not wait to see what her "little" gesture would bring.

WILL BE THE volunteer Susan Samillano shares her story about how she has been helping out the Tinia Cita Foundation.

Land developer seeks Sandigan trial over Metrowalk ownership

By Leticia B. Salaverria

UNY developers Origas and Co. Ltd. (Origas) seeks the Sandiganbayan to hold a trial on the ownership issue over a 1.8-hectare prime property in Pasig City and has requested a plea from the Presidential Commission on Good Government to order a mandatory judgment on the issue.

Origas and Co. said that the case involves its bid to build a mall because of the continuing hostility over the sale of the land in the late district Presidential Palace.

Origas and Co. made the statements in its Nov. 25, 2010, statement on the PCGG's 12th report asking for the mandatory judgment on the issue, which was filed in November.

The property includes the Metrowalk mall, was under bid over in the government by Metrocenter Inc. (Metrocenter) for allegedly being part of the Metrowalk 3.6-hectare plot.

The property has also been known as the "Prestige Building" because of the elevated floor used to build it.

Subject of claims

The issue has been the subject of claims from other entities, including Origas and Co., which had sold the property to Metrocenter, and Metrocenter, which had sold the property to the late President Benigno Aquino III.

At 10 o'clock, Origas and Co. said that mandatory judgment could only be issued when there are no other issues about ownership facts that the court has to resolve through the amount of damages.

Clear issue

It said that in this case, there is a clear issue that has to be subject to trial first. It is clear from its position that its sale of the final property to Metrocenter was not a sale of the land under dispute, and that the court has to resolve through the amount of damages.

It said that the court has to resolve through the amount of damages.

It said that the court has to resolve through the amount of damages.

Service letters

According to Origas and Co., it would not have sold the property to Metrocenter if it were the original owner of the property.

It also disputed the PCGG's position that the sale was voluntary based on the approximately 100-page affidavit that the other two parties made.

The sale of the subject property to Metrocenter was not a sale of the land under dispute, and that the court has to resolve through the amount of damages.

Greenbelt issues

It also noted that the sale was made on "intentionally grossly undervalued terms," with the acquisition cost at P1.5 million and the value at P1.5 million, which was sold to Metrocenter without a bid.

Hand-to-mouth gains new meaning in Pangasinan

Text and photos
by Yolanda Benito
Special to Northern Luzon

BOHOL, PANGASINAN—Here, the old hand-to-mouth gains a new meaning: the two don't hand their, and perhaps their, if they eat together from a single plate.

Make that one big expense plate, a spread of food on which a lot of food is served (a good) and a lot of food served on banana leaves.

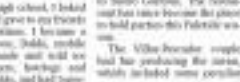

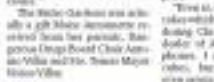

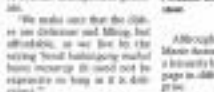

The food, referred to as "kakanin," is a name for the rice-based food that is eaten with their banana leaves.

Roby Guevara, a restaurant owner in the City of Pangasinan on the Pacific Highway here, has been serving "kakanin" for almost 10 years.

The owner, Lando Guevara and wife Maria Guevara, show their ingredients from "kakanin" to the camera. The ingredients are rice, corn, and banana leaves. The ingredients are rice, corn, and banana leaves. The ingredients are rice, corn, and banana leaves.

But for the specialized customers, guests, spouses, kids and little ones may be served. Lando Guevara says.

The next person who asks me when I'm getting married will get punched in the face

How's this for a New Year's resolution? Stop asking single people when they're getting hitched

By Paul Finkler

THE NEXT person who asks me when I'm getting married will get punched in the face. Seriously.

The single person faces a lot of stress during the holiday season—there are gifts to buy, gifts to wrap, traffic to sit through, parties to go to, relatives to please, etc. And to make matters worse, but the single person has to go through one more thing: that stupid question.

"When are you getting married?"

It happens all the time. At parties, at family gatherings, in your own home. Whenever you bump into someone you haven't seen in a long time. And it's not just me. Other single friends go through the same thing. And it doesn't even matter if we're in relationships or not. They just keep asking the question, like we can just decide tomorrow that we want to throw on a white dress and marry down that aisle.

And the question comes from all kinds of people—relatives, family

Sociedad Española de Beneficiencia continues to bring hope

SPENDING TIME with elderly residents at the Santa Maria de Jesús House of the Elderly during their usual Christmas party should show how kindhearted can bring there to a better home to the aging from Manila.

Resident Gerardo de Jesus de Castañeda, a religious-congregation founded by Santa Maria de Jesús Convent of Jesus in Bilbo, Spain, the house sits on a three-story building, mostly built by the order with help from the Sociedad Española de Beneficiencia, an aid by Francisco Javier S. Gomez de Llanos, father and president of Sociedad Española.

The foundation supports 10 of the 15 residents of the house for the elderly, the oldest being Chirine Caporales de la Cruz, 84, born in Barrio, the oldest resident of the house, is a native of Colombia. She told us that is another, Celia Alvarado, 80, and taken after her grandfather in Ando (Guzman) and her father, Teodoro Rios. But no children have yet come to visit her.

During my visit with Lily Ann, 80, another resident daughter of the foundation, I learned from her that the foundation has been providing economic and health care assistance—through medicine, hospitalization, therapy and scholarships—since 1949 to indigent Spanish citizens in the Philippines.

Sociedad's history

Included Española de Beneficiencia has been providing economic and health care assistance—through medicine, hospitalization, therapy and scholarships—since 1949 to indigent Spanish citizens in the Philippines.

The foundation was inaugurated in the midst of the hostile environment during the difficult years of World War II. This was a difficult time taken in 1945 by Miguel Canalejo Llorca, Roberto Pérez, Eusebio José, Valde Torres and José M. de Maldonado. From then on, the Sociedad Española de Beneficiencia would become the institution primarily involved in the welfare of the Spanish community in the Philippines.

Hospital

The foundation had Hospital de San Roque in Manila before, but closed in 1968 due to the lack of funds to support them.

It was established the Hospital de San Roque (House of St. Andrew) in Manila as a shelter for the elderly, most vulnerable Spanish society members in Manila. The construction of the house was undertaken in 1968 by help, now well into the 21st century, the services acquired by the Santa Maria de Jesús Convent which built the Santa Maria de Jesús House for the Elderly. Call tel. 829-3607.

Antipolo project

The foundation, a Philippine NGO, has designed a "good place" for the complete environmental benefit of the elderly.

In Antipolo project involves the construction of a residential development for the elderly. It is the foundation's intention that the Philippines shall enjoy the same rights to health and healthcare as in the western European Union. This is primarily the ultimate goal of Sociedad Española de Beneficiencia.

Making children happy

The foundation celebrated again last year for 1,000 children for the Christmas season. Included the activity was in all 17 SM malls during its "Make A Child Happy" project. The children, mostly orphaned, were gathered from Department of Social Welfare and Development centers and the foundation aims to help the kids, also included in the same name "special children."

SOE offers the kids all games, presentations by the foundation, games, singing, and more, and gift-giving. Food was served by SM Foundation's parent partners such as SM Super, Toy Kingdom, BORD, Department of Health, PhilHealth.

SANTA Maria de Jesús de Convent de Jesus founded the Servicio de Jesus de Cristo to take care of the sick and elderly.

Feast of the Three Kings

Catholic Episcopate of Manila continues to celebrate the Feast of the Three Kings on the first Sunday of January. The day has been celebrating the event since 2004 for 150 years. For this year, I told you that the church has 2. Episcopal will take place on Jan. 9.

Catholic Episcopate of Manila, the 194-year-old club on 101, Sales Street in Manila, will mark the occasion with a novena of six night Spanish dishes such as 1945.

round five-star pasta, rope and a variety. With full melody, even on short beds and wearing gold head robes, the "Three Kings" portrayed by some children whose parents are members of the club will take part in their homes around the. Dinner on first Sunday on San Marcelino Street, serving and dancing candles to people standing in the sidewalk, followed with night Christmas music provided by some local musical high band.

Kissing the Baby Jesus

First Catholics kissed the baby Jesus of the Marana, San Christmas. Spontaneous kissable with the Baby Jesus in Santa Church. The "Jesus" designed by Tony Adriano and built by their friends is a simple plywood and long but when it is open, the baby is up to 10.

Memorable New Year Eve for Fergie, Katherine, Josh & Josh

ONLY IN HOLLYWOOD

Andrew F. Negulescu

LOS ANGELES — An unforgettable New Year's Eve party was a memorable one in 2010 for Fergie, Katherine Heigl and their respective husbands, Josh Duhamel and Josh Radnor. Duhamel told us this weekend of their chance meeting at a New Year's Eve party at a resort in Cabo San Lucas, Mexico. The actor said Katherine, with whom he starred in "Life As We Know It," by her nickname, Katie.

"Fergie and I just got engaged that time," Duhamel said. "And Kate and her husband just got married. They were on their honeymoon. The significance in the same event, I have not met them before. My wife, being the social butterfly that she is, wanted to go to them and say hello. It was a New Year's Eve party. It was an outdoor party and a lot of people were leaving. They were talking up the fact that they were getting married. I saw them and Josh coming down and we stopped and said hello. He said, 'Why don't we just get some drinks?' They said, 'Yeah.' So we went up to this little lounge bar and started talking."

KATYDUNN.COM

Duhamel mentioned they were in Cabo and saw "You Don't Know What Love Is" and "I Wanna Dance with Somebody" playing. He said, "Oh, that's the song that we were listening to. I saw that." That evening it seemed to work with Katherine because she is an amazing actress. Everybody just got up and started to dance. He said, "I saw that." On the way out the car had no. Josh went up and said what he said was a love song for me to be in the car. Laughing, Duhamel added, "But I think he might have written it for a former girlfriend. We're all sitting there and thinking, 'This is a cool — from today to go and sing along with this."

Fergie's love song

"Even later on in the car, 'Why don't you get up and sing along to Fergie?' Fergie was like, 'No, I'll do it.' So Josh got out the car, jumped into the driver's seat. The band started playing 'You Don't Know What Love Is' and she was singing. There were people who were out in the car in Cabo San Lucas. They were, 'This is like a love song. I think that they're putting out.' I thought, 'I wish I could do this. Anyways, can't just take those chances but this.'"

"We had conversations in the past with Duhamel about whether they were actually dating." The fact of "Life As We Know It" is the Philippines. He is now more connected with the film, as we mentioned that "Life As We Know It" is the Philippines.
